The Last 10 years we have had the privilege to attend the Yeck's "Golf for Vets" award dinner and also have been gifted a generous donation each year!

Thanks Yeck's tire & auto

The Master Gardeners (MG) who maintain many of our gardens honored R. Roen with a MG tee shirt. Ron has helped nearly every Tuesday morning by pulling weeds and dead-heading flowers with us. He's very helpful and the team always looks forward to seeing and visiting with him.

Thanks, Ron, and welcome to the Master Gardener community!

MONARCH BUTTERFLY

The large and brilliantly-colored monarch butterfly is among the most easily recognizable of the butterfly species that call North America home. They have two sets of wings and a wingspan of three to four inches . Their wings are a deep orange with black borders and veins, and white spots along the edges.

The underside of the wings is pale orange. Male monarchs have two black spots in the center of their hind wings, which females lack. These spots are scent glands that help males attract female mates. Females have thicker wing veins than males. The butterfly's body is black with white markings. From September into early October, fall southern migration to Mexico begins, with the majority of monarchs following the reverse path south along the central migratory corridor which includes Eastern Nebraska. Milkweed is one of their favorite foods. Our gardens have numerous plants that they like to lay their eggs on and feast on. Enjoy them as they travel through in the coming weeks.

Happy October Birthdays!!

Adjusting to change is not easy on our bodies. My wife and I just returned from a 5 day and 4 night bus trip with our church group to eastern Kentucky. After over 1,500 miles on the bus and sleeping in three different beds on 4 nights and over-eating for 5 days, my body is protesting. You have all been there in some of your trips. It is good for us to remember, as family and staff of our members, that as they come to live in ENVH they are going through many changes in their beds and diets and living patterns and health decline and people that they live with. We need to display patience and understanding as they seek to cope with all these changes and adjustments.
