Christmas at ENVH

Members at ENVH showed their holiday spirit at the annual Christmas party this year. We celebrated with Christmas music, family and friends, cookies, gifts, and the Grinch!

As we pass through the aging process (although it may sometimes come earlier in life), we begin to become more intimately familiar with medical terms like cancer, stroke, pacemaker, biopsy, radiation, dialysis, hospice, catheter, etc. We become more aware of the temporary and fragile nature of this life. As we grapple with this reality both in our own lives and in the people around us, we can better work through this reality by focusing on God's love and faithfulness and presence with us. Instead of allowing this reality to drive us away from God, let us allow it to bring us near to Him. May we each find encouragement in doing that.
